

Dear colleague:

The Universidad Central “Marta Abreu” de Las Villas, Institution of Excellence in Cuban Higher Education, has the honor to invite you to the II International Scientific Convention on Science, Technology and Society. UCLV 2019.

Researchers, academics, entrepreneurs, government policy makers, students and other specialists from all over the world who work to achieve sustainable development will be able to participate.

Its main motto will be: Science and social transformation for sustainable development. The meeting will take place from June 23rd to 30th, 2019, at the tourist destination Cayos de Villa Clara, Cuba.

The current global context requires designing initiatives that promote scientific and technological cooperation with a more inclusive approach, aimed at stimulating progress and moving forwards in the fulfillment of the objectives included in the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations in September 2015.

Our priority objectives are exchanging scientific, academic and practical criteria; promoting integration among all areas of knowledge; and assessing human being's action in the different thematic fields that foster sustainable and inclusive development.

The Convention will also have among its lines of action the presentation of proposals to face the challenge of: safeguarding the natural processes of the earth to ensure the well-being of civilization, eradicating poverty, reducing conflict over natural resources and supporting human life and ecosystems.

Experts of renowned national and international prestige will give keynote lectures; and roundtables, symposia, seminars, and workshops will be held.

Side to the convention, an associated exhibition will be organized, where the results related to the themes that will be addressed during the meeting will be exposed.

The Organizing Committee reiterates the invitation to this meeting that will foster an important contribution to the scientific development, in an academic environment, by promoting a climate of cooperation, friendship and mutual solidarity.
